I must confess to a certain sentimental affection for Magnepan products. An early version of the Tympani did more to rekindle my interest in audio than any other speaker I can think of. In a world which seemed doomed to finding out just how small and dull it could make acoustic suspension boxes, the Magnepans reminded me that speakers could produce a large open soundstage, real dynamics, and ...

I had the MG-1IC and liked the sound. They do not sound like conventional cone type speakers, so your first impression may or may not impress you. The MG-2C is a 2-way panel, Oak side rails, and stand about 6 feet tall by 2.5 feet wide and are 2 inches wide at the rails. When I sold them they were driven with an old 1969 Sansui 350 20WPC receiver.
